Casino World permit issued

BY ED LEPOMA

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has officially notified developers of the Casino World gambling resort proposed south of Diamondhead that it plans to issue them a construction permit.

The news was released from the Madeira Beach, Florida headquarters of Europa Cruises Corp., which has spearheaded the Diamondhead project, and greeted with enthusiasm by Deborah Vitale, chairman of Europa's Board of Directors.

"We are obviously very pleased to have cleared such a hurdle," said Vitale. "The issuance of this Army Corps notice was critical to our project and our ability to attract a potential joint venture partner."

The Corps informed Europa that "On October 27, it issued notice to the U.S. Department of Interior's Fish and Wildlife Service and the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency of its intent to issue a permit to the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission and Casino World Inc., a subsidiary of Europa Cruises Corp., to permit construction of a mooring facility in the Bay of St. Louis at the company's Diamondhead, Mississippi site."

The Corps further informed Europa, "If no action is taken by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency or U.S. Department of Interior within 30 days from the date of the notice, the permit is expected to become final."

Europa's 404-acre tract south of the Diamondhead Exit off Interstate 10 would be developed to include two barges on the North Bay of St. Louis.

Armed robberies suspect nabbed

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS

An anonymous tip Tuesday night led to the arrest of a suspect in three area armed robberies, two Sunday and one Monday. The tip came after a media composite of the suspect was circulated.

Jerry Wayne Phillips, 32, 103B Melody Lane, Bay St. Louis, was arrested at his residence about 8 p.m. Tuesday, and charged with the armed robbery on Monday of Subway Sandwiches, Highway 90, Bay St. Louis, Bay Investigator Tom Burleson, said Wednesday.

Phillips was later charged with the armed robbery of the Texaco Service Station in Diamondhead on Sunday at approximately 8 p.m. and is also being held for Pass Christian Police for a Sunday morning robbery of a Subway in Pass Christian, Burleson added.

Tuesday morning, Bay Police Chief Frank McNeil said they were searching for a white male in his 20s, 6 ft. tall with a slim build in connection with the Subway armed robbery.

"There was one employee at the Bay sandwich shop, and the suspect walked in and asked the employee to give him all of it, and she asked 'what?' He pulled a small caliber gun and asked for all the money, which she gave him. As the suspect left, the employee was looking at him and he told her to get her head down and on the floor," McNeil said.

Tornados rip through county

BY ED LEPOMA

Mangled appliances, shredded furniture and clothes and children's toys lay on the ground as silent witnesses this week to a violent tornado that demolished two trailers in the Nacaise community Saturday.

Miraculously, no one was home when the tornado ripped through northern Hancock County, but at least two families were left homeless, and this week family members, friends and the American Red Cross are coming to their aid.

A string of severe thunderstorms passing through the area probably spawned the twister, and there was some advance warnings put out on area television and radio stations.

The tornado first touched down around 3:30 p.m. at the Gumbo Hill trailer park. It

Manhunt underway for kidnapper

BY ED LEPOMA

An extensive manhunt is underway for a white male who allegedly kidnapped and beat a Bay St. Louis restaurant owner Sunday night.

Deborah (Debbie) Brondum, 40, was seen Wednesday morning safely back at her St. Amant's beachfront restaurant, sporting black eyes and bruises on her face. The restaurant was closed Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, but painters were outside applying a new coat of paint to the building. The restaurant's marquee fronting Court and Beach Boulevard displayed in black and white letters, "Welcome back Debbie. We all love you."

Brondum told authorities the saga began when she went to the Waveland Wal-Mart off Hwy. 90 about 11:15 p.m. Sunday. In the parking lot, she

Bay adopts animal control ordinance

BY MARY G. SEILEY

A new animal control law was enacted Monday in Bay St. Louis, giving officials much more clout to deal with cruelty cases, vicious animals and pets that create a nuisance.

City Council adopted the ordinance unanimously, capping more than two months' study and debate on the matter. The greatly expanded regulations go into effect in 30 days.

"The whole bottom line is ... we're trying to get animal owners to accept responsibility," Council President James Rutherford said at the close of debate Monday.

The major addition to what was pending Monday is a provision against chaining dogs to stationary objects. Animal Control Officer Curtis Quate had pushed for the extra provision, saying in too many cases dogs are left chained in yards perpetually. "I get a couple of calls a week" in such cases, said Quate. "And really, there's nothing I can do about it ... and that dog can stay on (a chain) for four, five or six years and never be touched" by a human.

To remedy that, the new law forbids chaining or tethering animals to stationary objects. Once cited for a violation, the owner may be given 90 days to remedy the situation by building a pen of at least 100 square feet, or providing a fenced yard of at least 100 square feet. In the interim, the dog owner may attach the dog to a cable run system with a pulley.

The new law gives Quate fairly broad discretion to deal with such cases — he doesn't have to grant a grace period to pet owners if the owner has a bad record of dealing with animals. And he can nullify the grace period if the owner isn't in compliance with other animal care provisions.

Quate was adamant that the situation needs addressing. "I would like to do anything to get dogs off chains," he said at one point in the discussion.

Rutherford said the law allows Quate to apply "common sense" to specific cases.

Other newly enacted provisions require pet owners to have rabies vaccinations for dogs and cats. Canines must wear proof of their vaccinations, but cats are not required to wear tags and collars.

The new law has provisions for dealing with nuisance dogs or cats, such as those who destroy or deface properties, bark excessively, cause noxious odor or filthy conditions.

It also outlaws cruel or inhumane treatment of animals, provides for impoundment of animals suspected of having rabies, and regulates confinement and control of "vicious" dogs or cats.

One local citizen told council she is a neighbor to the owner of seven Rottweiler dogs which are confined some 12 feet from her bedstead. The females are kept in a pen, she said, while the males are tied to stakes. "It's ridiculous. I can't open my window. The pen is 12 feet from my bed and it's filthy."

Rutherford said that owner clearly violates a city law which forbids owning more than three dogs without qualifying as a "kennel" property. He told Quate to take a video camera to the house at issue — and the police chief — to resolve the matter.

Quate said he had dealt with the complaint in the past, only to see a few of the dogs removed temporarily and reappear later.

Legion Harvest Ball/Auction November 14

The American Legion Auxiliary, Clement R. Bontemps Unit 139 will hold its annual Harvest Ball/Auction Nov. 14 at the Post Home on Green Meadow Road. The yearly function is always dedicated to a worthy cause in the state of Mississippi.

This year's American Legion Auxiliary Department of Mississippi president, Mrs. Billie Gorden, has chosen as her special project the Mississippi Firefighters Memorial Burn Center, Mississippi's only comprehensive burn care center, in Greenville.

The Burn Center is non-profit and depends solely on donations from each of the Mississippi County Board of Supervisors and from firefighters, organizations, businesses, industry and individuals.

No burn victim is ever turned away from the Burn Center, no matter what state they are from nor what their financial situation may be. Many of the burn victims treated at the center are children.

Millions of dollars in patient care are written off each year due to public and private donations. The Bay St. Louis and Waveland fire departments are joining with the auxiliary and Post 139 in this fund raiser.

All proceeds from the Harvest Ball/Auction are designated for the Mississippi Firefighters Memorial Burn Center.

The auxiliary is asking for any type of contribution, be it cash donations or items for the auction. Tickets for the Harvest Ball may be purchased from the representative calling on you, or tickets may be purchased at the door.

"On behalf of the auxiliary, the firefighters and the burn victims sincerely thank you for your generous donations," said Frances Graves, chairman of the Harvest Ball/Auction.

WHAT IS YOUR OPINION?

10 Alternative Scenarios for Higher Education in the Mississippi Gulf Coast Region

Based on interviews with hundreds of Gulf Coast residents, the College Board has developed 10 alternative scenarios for providing higher education to Gulf Coast residents. The development of these scenarios and the gathering of public and professional opinions about them is part of a study commissioned by Mississippi's Institutions of Higher Learning. The Hancock County Chamber's Education Committee would like to ask for your consideration on scenarios #1, 3, 5, 6 & 8. We feel that these scenarios will provide the best educational opportunities for the citizens of the Gulf Coast. Please call 1-888-823-0045 by November 2 to voice your opinion. Your input is valuable to the educational future of the Gulf Coast!

☒ SCENARIO #1: MGCCC Expansion. MGCCC will acquire and staff a new community college campus in Hancock County, after the lines of the community college districts are redrawn to allocate Hancock County to MGCCC. MGCCC will offer a wide variety of freshman and sophomore courses, as well as associate degrees — including academic transfer degrees — on the new campus. Simultaneously, Stone County could be reallocated to Pearl River Community College, thus making the current Perkinson campus of MGCCC part of Pearl River Community College.

☐ SCENARIO #2: Mississippi Community College-University Partnership. USM will provide the junior and senior years for the bachelor's degree plus master's, doctor's and professional degree programs on the two current campuses of MGCCC on the Coast, with its own Gulf Park campus converted into a third such facility on the Coast. MGCCC will continue to offer all of the freshman and sophomore courses, as well as associate degrees — including academic transfer degrees — on these three campuses.

☒ SCENARIO #3: Mississippi Virtual University. Without ever having to leave the Coast, any resident of any age can earn an associate, bachelor's or master's degree from public colleges or universities in Mississippi by studying part time or full time exclusively through distance technology, such as two-way interactive television or two-way interactive computer linkages. The best professors now teaching will be brought in by technology from all over the state, from all over the U.S., and indeed, from all over the world.

☐ SCENARIO #4: Gulf Coast University Center. A new multi-university center will be constructed at a convenient central location on the Coast. Complete bachelor's, master's and doctor's degrees, beginning with the freshman year, will be provided by a variety of Mississippi public colleges and universities invited to bring programs in demand on the Coast to the Coast. Determining which programs will be offered by which colleges and universities will be handled by State officials. Each program will be provided by full-time resident faculty members hired by the college or university supplying the program.

☒ SCENARIO #5: Upper-Division/Graduate USM on the Gulf Coast. USM will be expanded so that it has more upper-division bachelor's, master's, doctor's and professional degree programs offered entirely on the Coast, without students having to drive to Hattiesburg for any required courses. However, USM will not be expanded to offer freshman and sophomore courses; those courses will continue to be taken elsewhere by students, such as at the local community college campuses. USM will have a larger full-time resident faculty plus a larger campus, with well-equipped academic buildings, libraries and laboratories.

☒ SCENARIO #6: Comprehensive USM on the Gulf Coast. USM will be expanded so that it has a larger number of complete bachelor's, master's, doctor's and professional degree programs offered entirely on the Coast, without students having to drive to Hattiesburg for any required courses. To that end, USM will be expanded to offer a complete array of freshman and sophomore courses for those students who wish to take their four years of undergraduate work at one institution. USM will also have a larger full-time resident faculty plus a larger campus, with well-equipped academic buildings, libraries and laboratories.

☐ SCENARIO #7: Gulf Coast University. A new, ninth, comprehensive, public university will be opened on the Coast, offering a full array of freshman and sophomore courses like the three other comprehensive public universities in Mississippi. It will offer a wide variety of in-demand bachelor's, master's, doctor's and professional degree programs as diverse as those offered by other comprehensive public universities. The new university will be located either on a considerably enhanced and rebuilt Gulf Park campus or on a new, much larger campus at a convenient central location.

☒ SCENARIO #8: Mississippi Comprehensive Public/Private University. A new, comprehensive university containing some public divisions and some private divisions — with the private divisions being both more selective and more expensive to attend — will be opened on a large, new campus. Through its various public and private divisions, this university will offer a wide variety of bachelor's, master's, doctor's and professional degree programs, starting with the freshman year. Based on the public/private Cornell University model, Mississippi's university could, for example, have a private world-class Hotel School for teaching hotel management and casino management courses.

☐ SCENARIO #9: Mississippi Public/Private Institute of Marine Science. A world-class institute offering specialized associate, bachelor's, master's, doctor's and professional degrees in marine science, marine technology and related fields will be designed to attract talented students and profitable businesses to Mississippi. Degrees will be offered, starting with the freshman year, in fields such as marine biology, marine ecology, oceanography, aquaculture, hydrography, pharmacology, fishing, shrimp, petroleum engineering, small boat manufacturing, international trade and shipping port operations. The institute will be a hybrid public/private university, supported in equal parts by state funds, private funds and student tuition.

☐ SCENARIO #10: Mississippi Private University. A new comprehensive university will begin with the freshman year and will offer a diversity of bachelor's, master's, doctor's and professional degree programs on a large, new campus. Admissions will be selective, and the university will be designed to attract students from out of state. It will be supported by major corporate gifts, individuals philanthropy, alumni contributions, and tuition charges. It will have specialties that are known throughout the U.S., such as oceanography, rocket testing, casino management, and/or naval architecture degree programs.

"CUEVAS" QUOTES

By Ellis C. Cuevas

A new twist in high school football this week will be the St. Stanislaus game, which will be played Thursday night. St. Stanislaus will play host to the Picayune Maroon Tide in Rock-A-Chaw Stadium.

Kickoff is set for 7:30 p.m.

It is to be a rocky road this week as the Tigers of Bay High travel to Hawk Stadium to play Hancock High.

Hancock lost a heart breaker last week to Picayune, a state-rated team and should be soaring like a Hawk over the Tigers.

With some help Hancock can still make it to the playoffs, as they have only lost two conference games this season.

Bay High, in its rebuilding year, is seeking its first victory.

As always, Bay High could spring a trap on Hancock, if they are looking for next week's game against Columbia.

It will be a home game for the Pirates of Pass Christian Friday, as they play host to Purvis in a conference tilt.

Pass started off good this season and needs another victory to have a winning season.

The local high school teams need your support in the stands.

Don't forget, the Stanislaus game is on Thursday with kickoff at 7:30 p.m., while Hancock vs. Bay High is on Friday, and Pass plays host to Purvis on Friday with kickoffs at 7:30 p.m.

We hope to see you at the games.

Do not forget the Hancock County Historical Society's Cedar Rest Cemetery tour from 5 to 8 p.m. on Friday.

There will be a dozen or so residents portraying former residents.

Charles Gray, president of the society, tells me that there will be cookies and punch at the Kate Lobrano Cottage for those making the tour.

A $1 donation each is suggested for the cemetery tour. Proceeds will be used for restoration work in the cemetery.

It is a fun time for Halloween and very educational, as you can find out things about former residents you may not know.

I had the honor of being one of the portrayers for a couple of years and really enjoyed it. Friday night I plan on being a visitor, just like you. I may attempt to take a photo or two.

Halloween night will mean a lot of youngsters out trick-or-treating, so motorists need to be extremely careful as they drive about the area.

Bay St. Louis assistant police chief David Stepro reports the following street closures will take place Friday night for Halloween.

Arcola Drive at Jackson, DeMontluzin at Dunbar, Necaise and Toomey, Main Street at Dunbar and St. Frances, Toulme and Second, Spanish Acres at the Old Spanish Trail. Stepro said the cross streets on DeMontluzin and Main Street will be open.

Please drive safely, and parents keep a close tab on your children as you take them about the area trick-or-treating.

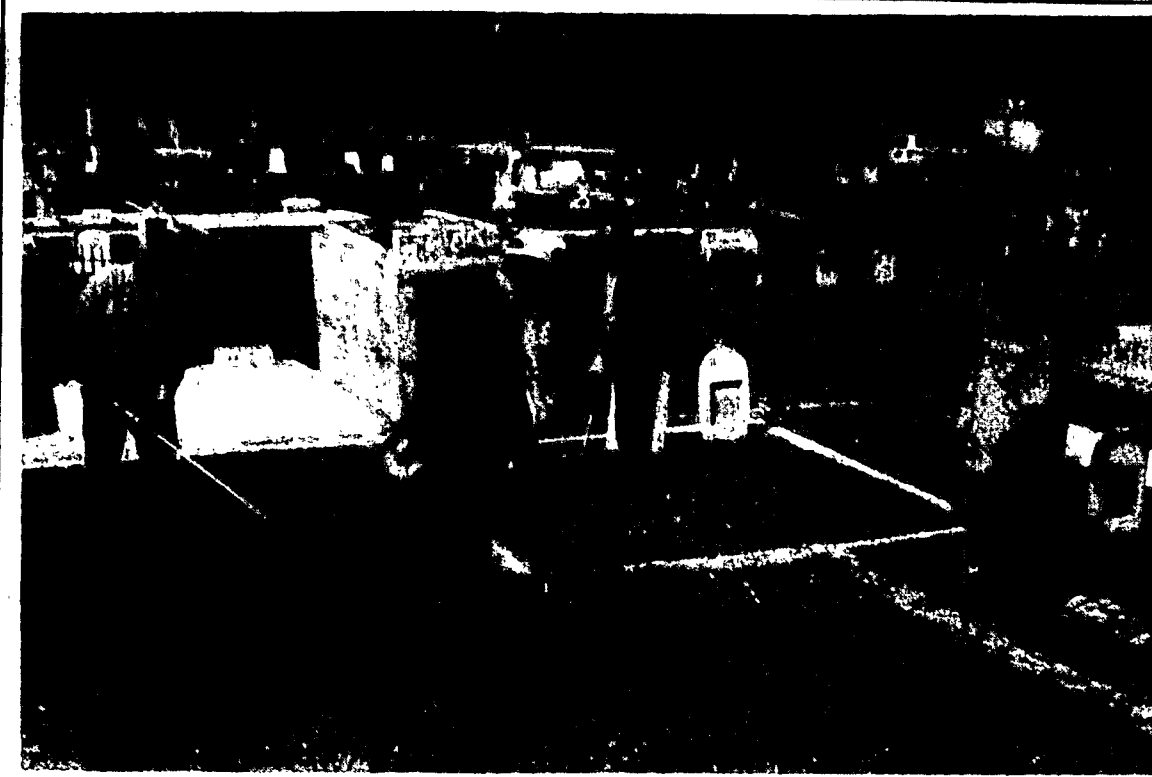

Bay St. Louis resident C.C. McDonald received a telephone call from someone on Tuesday whom he suspected was a scam artist.

This person said his car broke down, was robbed and was on his way to his mother's funeral and needed money. He also mentioned the name of another member of McDonald's church, as if to give some legitimacy of his need.

Anyway, it is best for our residents never to send monies to anyone whom they do not know, because scam artists are always looking for ways to fleece the public.

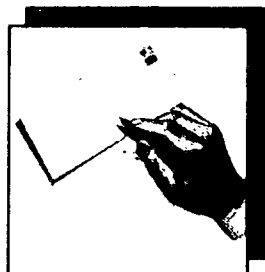

I have received word that Biloxi police have also received telephone calls from residents who have received similar calls.

I also saw a report where someone was using the same type of scam on pastors of some Coast churches.

Preparing for All Saints Day

Bay St. Louis crews were busy this week doing the final touches on the cleanup of the Cedar Rest Cemetery in Bay St. Louis in preparation for All Saints Day. Workers are, from left, Freddie Dedeaux, Craig Saucier, Rogers Price and Stanley Christmas. The Hancock County Historical Society will hold its annual Cemetery Tour on Friday from 5 to 8 p.m. in Cedar Rest with the portrayal of former residents of the city. Proceeds from the Halloween event will go towards cemetery restoration, said Charles Gray, president.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Student responds to letters about court news, report cards

Dear Editor,

I am writing this letter in response to the two letters written in your column last Thursday.

As a 17-year-old, I was deeply shocked by the attitude of the adults who wrote these comments concerning the publishing of the court docket in the Echo and something as petty as picking up a report card.

Being a member of both targets of attack, I feel that I should respond.

First of all, I think that it is a great idea that the court news is printed.

It is a public document and the public should not have to go to the courthouse to obtain it. After all, that's why we have the press to report events and information so that you don't have to be there.

Furthermore, I feel that if someone is arrested for DUI, then they deserve to be embarrassed, and anyone else who has seen a drunk (and by being a Police Explorer I have seen my share) or know someone who has been killed by a drunk or drunk driver would agree.

As far as everything else, such as speeding or minor traffic offenses, there shouldn't be any difference. Big deal that John Doe was ticketed for an expired tag, or that Jane was arrested for disorderly conduct.

I guess the police should not pull people over or arrest people in public. As for their children, I am sorry that they may be "teased," but children will be children, regardless!

As for the report cards deal, if the parent did not pick up the report, they were handed out the next day.

The purpose of picking them up was to allow parents to meet their child's teacher, not only to be informed of their misconduct, but of how well they are doing, also. Just because a child makes good grades does not mean that they don't misbehave.

I am the student representative for the Bay-Waveland School Board, and from the student's point of view, they are doing a good job in protecting the interest of the STUDENTS.

And as for the gentleman who wrote that article, he will be surprised to know that the entire school board is NOT elected.

Members from Waveland are elected, while members from Bay St. Louis are appointed by the Mayor.

I also noticed that he was from Lakeshore, which last I checked, was not in either corporate city limit.

So before saying that he "will" do this, and he "will" do that, I guess he should move into town.

Respectfully,
Ben Taylor

Office development veto brings more neighborhood comments

To the Editor:

The article in Thursday's Oct. 23 Sea Coast Echo, "Bay Council votes down development," did not tell the whole story. First of all, Carleen Moran did not "spearhead" the defeat of the proposed development on Dunbar Avenue.

If anyone should be blamed, it is myself. Mrs. Moran was simply listening to the people in her district, and she represented us (the neighborhood) well.

Moran was approached by my neighbors and myself to attend a meeting about re-zoning of the proposed property on Dunbar Avenue at which time she was given a copy of a petition with the signatures of the majority of the residents of Esplanade Avenue, Highland Drive, Beyer Drive, the Woods Subdivision, Sunset Drive, Vine Circle and Russell Elliot Drive.

The proposed re-zoning from residential to commercial would result in several offices being placed in the 70-plus-year-old home which sits on the property.

I own two lots on Esplanade Avenue that adjoins the property. We are proud that our neighborhood is a safe and comfortable place to raise our two young children.

It was not said "EXACTLY" what kind of offices were to be in the home, only probably a real estate office and possibly a mortgage office and appraisal or lawyer's office.

These were only possibilities, and frankly we all were a little uncomfortable with the uncertainty. I can't imagine how this could possibly upgrade our neighborhood. These offices would have been sandwiched between two residential areas.

I personally would like to thank Moran and the rest of the City Council for helping maintain our neighborhood as it is. Please, never blame the other if you do not know.

Sincerely,
William C. Breland

Resident feels China should pay duty on exports to U.S.

Dear Editor,

There has been a lot of discussion about China in the news lately. Here is my opinion about that.

There is no doubt that the 1.2 billion people living there do not vote in their country as of now. Neither do they vote in our election yet, despite the fact that the Tri-lateral Commission has bought the allegiance of our government to have a one-world government.

Therefore, we the people of these United States should be able to be in control of our country for a while yet.

The 47 billion of their products they exported to us was duty free. The 5 billion of our products we sent to them was charged 2 billion in duties.

This is not a free trade and also lacks 18 billion being a fair trade.

My opinion is that if this type of deficit trading happened to the Chinese, then those who were responsible would be held accountable and about a million kidneys would be for sale at a reduced rate.

Letter writer should have calmed down before writing

Dear Editor:

I also read and heard about the theft at Hope Haven, and I didn't like it very much myself. But I am now more concerned about the rather harsh letter Mrs. Ann Latham had published last week.

Now, I know she was angry. We all were, because many people donated time effort and money into that organization. But, I hope next time she decides to write publicly she would 1. come down first and 2. think.

Yes, everyone's entitled to their own opinion, but I know she couldn't have meant what she said. She said that out of anger. And I forgive her. I forgive her for having her tantrum publicly.

And that's what I'm writing about, forgiveness. Everyone should be forgiven for mistakes, that's why they call them MISSTAKES.

If it had been a child who had done this, they wouldn't understand what they're really did until years to come.

It was an adult, maybe they needed the food also, but were too embarrassed to ask. If that's the case, I'm glad they got the food. Sometimes we (everyone) look down on people who can't seem to fend for themselves. But that is still no reason to steal from anyone.

We will never really know that happened or why, but to whoever did it, I'm sure the police will handle it. I'm also sure that whatever the police do about it would be better than you suggested — tarred and feathered, choke on the food, not granted to enter the Pearly Gates, doomed for eternity.

Come on now! He who hasn't sinned, cast the first stone.

That letter is the reason why most people do the things they do and think the way they think. Who are we to judge?

I just hope that no one, especially kids, read your letter and think that everyone thinks the way you do.

And if she still means what she said — I forgive her anyway.

Very forgiving,
Teri Collins

BellSouth needs to be in long-distance market

Dear Editor:

An important decision which will affect the telephone customers of this state is currently pending before the Mississippi Public Service Commission — whether BellSouth's entry into the long-distance business is good for Mississippi consumers.

We believe there are a number of reasons why the average telephone customer has everything to gain — and nothing to lose — if BellSouth is allowed to compete in the long-distance market.

First of all, it is the surest way to encourage other telecommunications companies to provide local residential telephone service, giving customers greater choices for both local and long-distance service and enabling them to choose one company for all their communications needs. In short, BellSouth's entry into long distance will simplify their lives.

Secondly, real competition will encourage telephone companies to lower long-distance rates for the average customer and to develop innovative products and services as they compete for business.

Competitors will also be encouraged to build their own networks and to invest in Mississippi in order to provide service in every telecommunications market. According to a study by the WEFA group, this could boost the Mississippi economy over the next 10 years by more than $650 million and create an estimated 8,200 more jobs.

Congress intended customers to get all of the benefits of competition when it passed the Telecommunications Act of 1996 — full competition in long-distance service as well as local service. BellSouth is simply asking the Mississippi Public Service Commission to support our taking the next step — getting the approval of the Federal Communications Commission to provide long-distance service in Mississippi. That's definitely in the public interest.

Sincerely,
Rick Stewart
Regional Director, BellSouth

Make a Difference Day

Make a Difference Day Donation Drive to Help Fund Goodwill Industries Job Training and Placement Programs.

Overstuffed closets? Goodwill is asking people throughout the United States and Canada to "make a difference" by donating unwanted items to a good cause.

Clothing, household appliances, exercise equipment, furniture, computers and even cars and real estate will help fund Goodwill's job training and placement programs.

Each organization serves people with disabilities and other special needs by providing job training and vocational rehabilitation programs, as well as job placement opportunities. By doing so, the network helps people overcome barriers to employment and to become independent, tax-paying members of their community.

Your local Goodwill of South Mississippi now employs over 230 people in our coastal community. Please help by donating to Goodwill Saturday on "Make a Difference Day."

Stunt flyers headline 50th anniversary airshow at Keesler

Celebrating 50 years of the Air Force, Keesler Air Force Base will open its gates to a free Open House and Air Show Saturday, Nov. 1 from 9 a.m.-5 p.m., filled with acrobatic jump teams, aerial demonstration teams, mock dogfights in World War II flyers, Hurricane Hunter planes, simulated dive bombing attacks, and the POW MIA hot-air balloon.

The family event will showcase vintage aircraft that have supported the Air Force mission over the decades, as well as flybys by many aircraft flying today.

Aviation history enthusiasts will enjoy the variety of acrobatic displays performed by several teams coming to Keesler to participate in the show. Show pilot Fowler Carey will do an acrobatic demonstration as he takes to the skies in his graceful 1950's Thunderbird T-33. Vintage aircraft flier Jim Franklin's performance will include wing walking and a mock dogfight in his World War II UPF 7 WACO.

There will also be a T-6 demonstration team, a Beech C-45 acrobatic routine, bi-plane routines, dogfights and other performances. The day's finale will be a 45-minute show by the "Wings of Blue," the Air Force Academy's acrobatic jump team.

Keesler officials have also arranged to have a multitude of aircraft on the flightline where visitors can talk with the aircrews who fly them. Major static displays include military aircraft from all branches of the Armed Forces, numerous vintage aircraft, and AC-130 Gunship, WC-130 Hurricane Hunter Aircraft, C-130 Hercules Cargo Aircraft, C-17 Globemaster III Cargo Aircraft, and Army & Marine vehicle displays.

Families will also enjoy hot-air balloon rides in the POW MIA balloon, K-9 military working dog demonstrations, children's fingerprinting, a classic car show, weapons displays, entertainment by the Band of the U.S. Air Force Reserve's Dixieland Jazz Combo and their Bagpipe Band, and a

A lawsuit involving the former general manager of the Diamondhead Property Owners' Association may eventually find its way to Circuit Court.

On Tuesday, Chancery Court Judge J.N. Randall told former Diamondhead POA General Manager Paul Montjoy and POA officials that it was his opinion the case should be transferred to Circuit Court. Judge Randall said he believed he had no jurisdiction in the case.

The case has been delayed on several occasions.

Montjoy had sued the POA after his firing in July of 1996. Montjoy's firing came shortly after a new board of directors had been elected.

Another election of officers is scheduled for next summer.

variety of refreshments, as well as other Air Force memorabilia.

"In honor of the 50th anniversary of the United States Air Force, the organizers of the Keesler Air Show and Open House have put together a remarkable array of aerial demonstrations and stunts, as well as a static showcase of some of the military's most prized aircraft, all in the name of family fun and entertainment," said Stephen B. Richer, executive director, Mississippi Gulf Coast Convention & Visitors Bureau. "This is another example of the fantastic special events and attractions this area has to offer families of all ages."

The event is free and open to the public. On-base parking with shuttle service will also be available and free of charge. For information or a schedule of events, contact Keesler Public Affairs at (601) 377-2783.

Fuselier spared death

ASSOCIATED PRESS

For the third time, death row inmate Eric Fuselier has won a new trial from the state Supreme Court.

The court ruled Thursday that Fuselier, 51, was not tried fairly in 1995 in the death of a Jones County woman who was gagged and blindfolded in her bed and stabbed 41 times.

The decision also reverses a previous practice of prohibiting convicted perjurers from testifying in trials.

Fuselier, who had escaped from a Louisiana prison, has denied killing Rose Gunter in April 1983.

In the latest trial, the prosecution did not properly handle telling the jury about Fuselier's attempt to flee authorities two days after the murder, justices said. Fuselier was captured as he tried to run into a wooded area.

Opening date set for Lynn Meadows Discovery Center

Seven years in the making, the Lynn Meadows Discovery Center will open its doors to children and families May 16. The grand opening event May 16, called "Let The Discovery Begin" will be preceded by a two-month countdown of local, statewide and regional events and promotions.

May 16, from 9 a.m.-4 p.m. will be an open house for the public to tour the facility and grounds plus enjoy activities and food on the grounds to help celebrate the long-awaited opening. Activities and tours will be free of charge. A special opening ceremony will occur at 9:30 a.m.

"The next six months are critical for the Discovery Center. The building will be finished in January, and then we will start installing the exhibits. In February, we will work with various schools and test the exhibits with local school children. This will give us several months to fine tune the exhibits as needed," says Betsy Grant, project director. "Outside the building, we will be busy landscaping and creating the many outdoor exhibits, including a tree house village."

"And because we continue to plan expansion of the center, we will focus our fund-raising efforts on remodeling the remaining structures and bringing in large traveling exhibits and programs, including a planetarium," says Carole Lynn Meadows, board member and co-founder.

The center will open with six indoor hands-on exhibits, a museum shop, a science lab and ar-

Saturday Science program

John Wilson, an aerospace education specialist with Stennis Space Center, will be the guest speaker at "Saturday Science," a workshop aimed at assisting parents in helping their children obtain information necessary to create science fair projects.

The workshop has been set for Saturday, Nov. 8, 10 a.m.-noon at the Bay St. Louis-Hancock County Library.

Sponsored by the Hancock County Library System, teachers from Charles B. Murphy Elementary, Waveland Elementary and Diamondhead Academy will be on hand to answer questions and display science fair project materials.

Informational resource handouts will be distributed at the meeting, and library reference department staff members will discuss what the library has to offer parents in helping their children prepare a science fair project.

More information on the workshop is available by calling Sheila Cork at the library at 467-5282.

Church Festival

St. Thomas Parish, Long Beach (Hwy. 90) will hold its annual Fall Festival Nov. 7-9 on the church/school grounds.

The annual event provides family fun for kids of all ages. Carnival rides, kids' games, silent auction, 1,200 family flea market, craft booths, food and more.

tist studio, an organic garden, tree house and many other outdoor exhibits. A community and statewide project, the Discovery Center strives to offer young people opportunities to learn through discovery and without a fear of failure. Every aspect of the center, indoors and out, is designed to excite and intrigue young and old.

The Lynn Meadows Discovery Center for children is a hands-on discovery museum for young people, their families and schools, providing exhibits and programs designed to teach through experiences while encouraging creativity and an appreciation for the world. Located in the old Mississippi City Elementary School building at 246 Dolan Avenue in Gulfport (between Teagarden and Court-house, 1 1/2 blocks from the I-90), the Discovery Center is within 90 minutes of Hattiesburg, New Orleans and Mobile and central to the growing family tourist attractions on the Gulf Coast.

For information about the center, current school programs, pre-opening events, charter memberships, or "Let The Discovery Begin," contact the Discovery Center at 897-6039.

Christmas parade set

The Christmas season will be kicked off in force on Tuesday, Dec. 2 with the annual Hancock County Red Ribbon Christmas parade.

The parade, scheduled to roll at 6 p.m., promises to be the biggest ever with a number of units already committed to participate.

The route this year will be from the foot of the Bay Bridge to Drinkwater Blvd. Lineup will begin at 5 p.m. along the Frontage Road on the north side of Hwy. 90 at the Bay Bridge.

Some holiday festivities have been planned immediately following the parade at the Walking Track.

Anyone interested in participating in the parade can call the Chamber at 467-9048.

Historic renovation in the Pass

Pass Christian's largest historic renovation nears completion and will be open to the public for the first time Oct. 30.

"The Exchange," located at 111-117 East Scenic Drive, will house several businesses as well as a number of residences. Pass Mayor Billy McDonald will cut the ribbon at 3 p.m. today.

Following the ribbon cutting, the Coast Chamber's "After Hours" will be held in the structure beginning at 5 p.m.

The Building
The developers purchased "The Exchange" building, which has housed the Plantation Cafe and many other businesses in October 1994. At the time of purchase, the structure was in ruin. In 1996, the home of East 2nd Street, belonging to the Purchner family was acquired.

With the acquisition of that property, the total land area available for development was doubled. Plans were immediately redrawn to include six garden homes in the rear of the historic building.

The historic portion of "The Exchange," about 8,400 square feet, will house Coldwell Banker Alfonso's office in Pass Christian, the Fleur de Lis shop and three luxury apartments.

The structure contains a carriage, which leads to the private residential area in the rear of the main building. This entrance will be used for art exhibits and other community functions.

This historic renovation is the largest commercial undertaking in the City of Pass Christian, and may be the entire Gulf South. Built in 1926 by Dr. B. G. Rafferty, the structure has housed many businesses from Dr. Rafferty's office to the famed barrister C. Randall Jones, Esquire, the Plantation Cafe, Mississippi Power and many others.

The Developers
Carlene Alfonso and Walter Ketchings are the developers of the $2.3 million project. Ketchings, originally from Natchez, was an original member of the board of directors of the historic Natchez Foundation and was known as a preservationist and a developer of quality projects.

He was very involved in his commercial real estate business and renovating historic properties in Mississippi and Louisiana.

Alfonso is a lifelong resident of the Mississippi Gulf Coast and continued the family tradition in the real estate brokerage business. She is the president and CEO of Coldwell Banker Alfonso Realty Inc.

J. B. Jones Inc. was the lead contractor. Local Pass Christian contractors and supplier were used, such as Bourdin Brothers, Pass Wholesale and others. Jones specializes in commercial renovations.

The Tenants
Coldwell Banker Alfonso, the Gulf Coast's largest real estate brokerage company, will have one of its four local offices in the building. At least seven current Coldwell Banker agents live in The Pass and will now have shorter drive to the office.

Fleur de Lis is owned and operated by Carol Rynning, Liz Rogers and Rick Gamble and is an upscale shop. They will have their unique retail outlet, specializing in French antiques on the west side of the carriage-way. They have a sister shop in Mandeville. Carol will live in one of the three apartments.

Bay Catholic pre-Christmas Bazaar set

Bay Catholic Elementary will sponsor a pre-Christmas Bazaar, Sunday, Nov. 2, noon to 7:30 p.m.

The event is to be held at the Our Lady of the Gulf Community Center with proceeds going to the Bay Catholic Elementary building fund.

In time for Christmas will be arts & crafts, collectables, gifts, giftgiving tree, raffles, food and refreshments, Angelyn Treutel, chairman said.

"The afternoon should be a lot of fun, as we will also have music, Christmas Caroling, photos with Santa," Treutel added.

THE SEA COAST ECHO—THURSDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1997-9A

Mississippi ranks second in per capita income growth

By Linda King
According to revised estimates released by the Bureau of Economic Analysis (BEA), Mississippi's growth in per capita income of 5.0 percent between 1995 and 1996 was above the 6 percent national rate.

This growth was the 17th fastest among the 50 states. However, among the 12 southeastern states which comprise the Southeast region, Mississippi had the second highest rate of growth, just one-hundredth of a percent behind first place Kentucky.

While certain sectors were below the national pace in terms of earnings, the state managed to more than offset the sluggishness with above-average growth in other sectors. The sector with the largest earnings increase was farm earnings, posting an increase of 0.8 percent which was 34.3 percentage points above the U.S. rate.

However, the sector is rebounding from poor harvests in the 1995 season.

The comparison of a good year to a really bad year tends to exaggerate growth. Farm earnings comprise only 2.6 percent of total earnings by place of work within the state in 1996, although they have increased slightly from the 1.6 percent level recorded for 1995 earnings.

The story is similar for mining, which showed an increase in earnings of 7.1 percentage points above the nation. Corresponding with this earnings increase, the state experienced a 10.1 percent increase in mining employment from 1995 to 1996; however, even with this growth, the industry represents less than 0.5 percent of the state's total employment.

The two sectors which contributed the most to the state's growth in per capita income were construction and services. The construction industry had an increase in earnings of 8.9 percent which corresponds to the increase of 3,300 employees between 1995 and 1996. The state managed to gain momentum despite the slowdowns occurring in 1995. Services earning increased 7.9 percent compared to the nation's 6.9 percent. Incidentally, employment in services increased by 6.1 percent or 14,200 jobs.

Big contributors to this sector is earnings growth included health services (8.5 percent), engineering and management services (7.4 percent) and hotel and other lodging places (24.5 percent). Health services continue to represent the largest portion of all services earnings at 38.3 percent.

The construction and service sectors have driven much of the growth in the state's economy during the 1990s. Certainly the gaming sector has helped in this regard. But, residential and commercial construction, the boom in the health care industry and outsourcing by manufacturers has fueled economic activity in these sectors throughout the state.

According to the most recent employment data, the growth in both construction and services is slowing down. In recent months, construction employment has fallen below the levels of the previous year. Residential building permits for 1997 are below the year-to-date levels of last year. These sectors will get a boost from the hotel construction currently underway. It seems unlikely, however, that the state will soon return to the phenomenal growth seen over the past few years.

With the exception of retail trade and transportation and public utilities, earnings in the remaining sectors exhibited slowdowns in comparison to the U.S. between 1995 and 1996. The manufacturing sector exhibited the most sluggishness, posting a decrease of 1.0 percent.

While the most of the originated with nondurables in the recent past, the durables sector has also begun to show signs of a turnaround.

The majority of the 0.7 percent decline in durables can be attributed to employment declines in furniture and fixtures and transportation equipment which experienced employment losses of 5.0 percent and 9.8 percent, respectively.

This trend is a little troubling given that both the U.S. and the Southeast managed to sustain growth in excess of 3.5 percent. Nondurables manufacturing was hit harder than durables, declining 1.6 percent.

While the Southeast did exhibit slight growth in nondurables (0.9 percent), the region's growth was somewhat below the 3.6 percent posted at the national level. Employment losses in both textiles and apparel are largely responsible for the poor performance in nondurables.

Though Mississippi exhibited good growth in personal income, the state's per capita income is still well below the national average. In 1996, the state again ranked 50th with a per capita income of $17,575, approximately 72 percent of the U.S. average of $24,426. (In 1995, the state also had a per capita income which was roughly 72 percent of the U.S. average.)

Other states with relatively low per capita incomes included West Virginia ($18,160), New Mexico ($18,803), Arkansas ($18,959), Montana ($19,214), Oklahoma ($19,544), Utah ($19,595), Louisiana ($19,664), Kentucky ($19,797) and Idaho ($19,837).

(It should be kept in mind that the aforementioned figures are preliminary and are subject to change. No adjustment has been made for cost of living differences. Thus, the per capita income figures may understate or overstate individual standard of living, depending on the cost of living of each state.)

Six of the seven plain states were among the 10 fastest growing states in terms of per capita income. BEA analysts note that the large increases in farm earnings were responsible for the growth. The fastest growth in per capita income was 10.6 percent posted by North Dakota. Following close behind were South Dakota (9.0 percent), Iowa (7.2 percent), Nebraska (7.2 percent), Minnesota (6.7 percent), and Utah (6.1 percent).

Per capita income is calculated by dividing total personal income by population. BEA indicated that each of the states mentioned above had above-average increases in total personal income and increases in population that were less than or near the U.S. average.

Mississippi posted an increase of 5.7 percent in total personal income and 0.7 percent in population. In comparison, the U.S. average growth rate for total personal income and population were 5.6 percent and 0.9 percent, respectively.

Alaska had the slowest growth in per capita personal income with an increase of 0.9 percent between 1995-96. Other states with slow growth included Hawaii (1.2 percent), Wyoming (2.9 percent), Tennessee (3.1 percent), New Mexico (3.2 percent), Idaho (3.4 percent), Montana (3.5 percent) and Rhode Island (3.5 percent).

These states had below-average personal income growth and most had below-average growth in population. Declines or negligible increases in mining, farming, construction, manufacturing, transportation and public utilities and wholesale trade impacted personal income growth in many of these states.

Of the 50 states, all but Alaska and Nevada experienced growth in personal income that exceeded the national 5.6 percent average. However, Nevada's growth rate of 10.1 percent was the highest among the states. Nevada's growth was primarily due to the mining sector, which posted a 10.1 percent increase in earnings.

Home sales up 29 percent in top three markets

September's home sales in Jackson, Hattiesburg and DeSoto County were up a combined average 29 percent over the same month last year, according to the Mississippi Home Sales Report, released today by the Mississippi Association of Realtors.

Hattiesburg boasted a whopping 40 percent increase (41 units) over September 1996. While North DeSoto County showed an impressive 32 percent increase (43 units) Jackson showed an increase of 14 percent (45 units) over the same months last year.

Mississippi's Realtors closed 1,085 homes last month. While these numbers are down from August's sales figures, real estate markets typically experience a slow-down this time of the year, explains MAR President John M. Dean Jr. of Leland.

"Consumers can expect to see less activity in home sales as we move into the colder months," said Dean. "The fact that we remain well above last year's sales in the larger markets says a lot for the economic climate and consumer confidence in Mississippi."

In September, the state's two largest markets, the Jackson area and the Gulf Coast, closed 321 and 204 units respectively. Vicksburg showed the largest rise in home sales over August 1997, closing 38 units.

The Association's Home Sales Report also indicates that the highest average home sales price in September was in the Hattiesburg area, at $111,492, followed by Jackson at $104,300, and Oxford at $99,610. North DeSoto had the highest year-to-date average home sale price of $103,006. The lowest home sales average was in Laurel at $50,725. Statewide, the 1997 year-to-date average selling price is $86,886.

The Mississippi Association of Realtors is the voice of real estate in Mississippi, representing 4,200 real estate professionals active in all phases of brokerage, development, appraisal and property management.

Average Statewide Statistics

Welfare numbers decline

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Since the first casinos opened on the Mississippi Gulf Coast, the number of food stamp cases and aids to families with dependent children cases have declined, in part because many of the people who were getting aid have gotten jobs in casinos.

Food stamp cases in four coastal counties have dropped 10 percent in the past five years, from 17,978 in 1992 to 4,503 this year. Aid to families with dependent children cases have decreased 40 percent in the same period, from 6,005 to 3,325.

Following is a breakdown of food stamp and aid with dependent children cases, from 1992-97, in four counties on the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

containing 120,000 feet of gambling space. In addition, the company plans to construct a 450-room luxury hotel with related retail shops, a spa and sports and entertainment center, a recreational vehicle park and a nine-hole golf course.

The site on the Bay has already gotten approval of the Mississippi Gaming Commission, the Mississippi Commission on Marine Resources and water quality certification from the Mississippi Commission on Environmental Quality.

The $200 million project is expected to employ 750 during construction and create 2,000 full-time jobs once the resort is completed and operating. It has been endorsed by the majority of Hancock County supervisors and most other elected county officials.

However, a number of environmental and citizens groups have asked the Mississippi Supreme Court to review recent Chancery Court decisions approving both the Casino World and Circus Circus project, which is proposed a short distance east on the same Bay of St. Louis in nearby Harrison County.

The groups have also threatened to file suit in U.S. District Court in Washington,

Armed

Hancock County Chief Deputy Nathan Hoda said, "In the Sunday Diamondhead Texaco robbery, a subject walked into the station and demanded money. The clerk gave him the drawer, and he took the money and told her to get down on the floor."

"In a few minutes, the clerk got up and saw a security vehicle pull up by the pumps and she tried to motion to the officer. When the security guard realized what was happening, he noted the vehicle going east on the Interstate," Hoda said.

Officers say the description of the suspect was similar to that of the suspect arrested Tuesday night.

Burleson said Phillip's bond was set at $25,000 for the alleged armed robbery of Subway and that he was held in the Hancock County Criminal Justice Facility.

Hancock Investigator Matt Karl, who is handling the Diamondhead robbery, said Phillips was charged with armed robbery and that bond was set at $25,000, too.

The Pass Christian robbery occurred at approximately 11 a.m. Sunday, Burleson said.

noon when he noticed that part of the aircraft's metal skin was coming loose near the plane's baggage compartment.

Strother immediately notified his supervisor, Wayne Phillips, who notified Palmer's copilot. The pilot immediately notified Cessna officials in Wichita, KS, and early Tuesday morning, a Cessna technical team flew into Stennis with a substitute Citation X for Palmer. Palmer was piloting the new aircraft when he departed.

Palmer had spent Monday night at Casino Magic Inn after participating in a benefit golf tournament at The Bridges earlier in the day.

"I was looking (where to put the fuel) and I noticed the metal pulling away," Strother said. "It could have been catastrophic," Phillips said. "The metal had become unbonded from the plane. The aircraft could have lost pressurization."

Palmer took delivery of the $16 million aircraft approximately one year ago. His was the first delivered for private use.

The Citation has a top speed of Mach .9, or over 600 miles per hour. On Monday, Palmer's flight time from Houston was 42 minutes.

Sources said when Cessna officials arrived with the substitute plane, Palmer told the company reps that he was taking the new plane, and the company could keep his old plane. The substitute plane was the fifth one manufactured.

Cessna has delivered 30 of the new aircraft to this point.

way out, Brondum said she encountered a man, whom she said looked like a former employee, and let him into her car.

Driving west on Hwy. 90, Brondum said she then realized she did not know the man, and pulled the vehicle to the side of the road and told the man to get out of the car.

Brondum told Waveland police the suspect then punched her in the right eye, and told her to keep driving the car.

Brondum said she continued driving westbound on Hwy. 90 to the intersection of Hwy. 607 when the suspect told her to pull to the side of the road.

Brondum said she drove the vehicle into the woods, got out and started running. She said the suspect ran after her, but she fought him off and continued running into the woods, where she hid until daybreak.

When she wandered out of the woods near dawn, a passing motorist picked Brondum up near Pearlington and brought her to the Circle K Food Store in Waveland, where she called her husband.

Waveland police had already been alerted to possible foul play when Brondum's husband called them at 1:32 a.m. Monday asking police to check the Wal-Mart parking lot for his wife's car.

According to Police Chief James A. Varnell, officers did not locate the car in the Wal-Mart parking lot, but at 2:30 a.m. the Hancock County Sheriff's office received a call that there was a vehicle in the woods on old Hwy. 90 with its dome light on.

Sheriff's deputies went to the scene, along with Waveland Police, the K-9 unit, the Bay St. Louis Police Department, the Sheriff's Special Operations

Team and the Harrison County Sheriff's Department Helicopter Unit.

The car was confirmed to be Brondum's, and the Special Ops Unit, and K-9 dogs searched the woods while helicopters searched from the air for any sight of Brondum.

Authorities are looking for a white male, in his early 20s, about 5 feet, 9 inches tall, of slender build, 150 to 160 pounds, with dark, shoulder-length hair in a pony tail. He was wearing baggy-type pants, a dark T-shirt, and a green military-type jacket.

stroying the trailer that Rebekah Fairley had just settled into less than a month ago with her two sons and one-year-old daughter. She had hardly gotten everything out of boxes at her new home.

By chance, Fairley left shortly before the tornado struck to take her young family and her stepbrother to McDonald's and to the park.

L.J. Dunaway and Kim Lasabbe who live in another trailer a stone's throw away from the Fairley mobile home weren't at home either, but they both rushed home not knowing what to expect as soon as they heard warnings about a possible tornado.

"I was on my way to Gulfport when I heard over the radio that a tornado had struck," said Dunaway, "I double-backed here as quick as I could."

Lasabbe was at her job at a personal care center in Long Beach when she heard the weather bulletin and asked to go home.

"I freaked out when I saw how close it had hit to my trailer," said Lasabbe. "I felt so bad for Rebekah, but I was happy no one was home and no one was hurt."

From Gumbo Hill, the twister lifted Pam and Louis Favre's trailer off its steel frame, split the roof of Pam's beauty shop nearby, slightly damaged her mother's home and the homes of two other relatives nearby.

"We left about 3:15 to take mother (Claudine Ladner) to celebrate her birthday at the Grand Casino in Gulfport," said Favre. "When we got there, I called a cousin, and she said our trailer was off the block, so we hurried home."

"Off the block, there was nothing left," said Favre. Monday found the Favres still at the scene huddling with an insurance man.

"The trailer and the beauty shop were insured separately," said Favre. "But, we had just put about $1,500 into our camper, and it was not insured."

The camper lay upside down in a pile of debris that once was the Favre home. They had lived there about seven years.

The Favres have moved in temporarily with Pam's mother, and 11-year-old Andrena returned Monday to school at nearby Hancock North Central.

Her fifth grade class is planning to take up a collection for the family, according to principal Debbie Moran.

Moran said the Mrs. Sheila Moran's class went home Monday with a note asking families to donate clothing, canned goods or cash to the Favre family.

The American Red Cross is also helping survivors.

Lou Hood, disaster chairman for Harrison, Hancock and Pearl River counties, said he has already met with Hancock and Pearl River victims.

Hood said a house and three trailers were also damaged by a tornado that struck in Pearl River off Hwy. 26, about 12 miles north of Poplarville.

He said the Red Cross is giving families vouchers to purchase food and clothing and, in some cases, can provide money for up to two months to provide housing for persons who have been displaced.

HALLOWEEN TRADITIONS

The celebration of All Hallow's Eve comes from the mystical pre-Christian Celtic festival, "Samhain," (pronounced sow-in, meaning November) when the spiritual world was believed to draw near to the earth. Held on October 31, the last day of the Celtic year, it was a time when villages and hamlets banded together — lighting bonfires to ward off fairies and evil spirits, as well as feasting and celebrating the joys of the gathered harvest and their coming new year.

Also included in the feasting was the ancestral or "dumb" supper. This was a place setting in honor of those who had passed on in the previous year. The children would go door to door begging for "soul cakes" which were specially baked for the occasion to serve at the "dumb" supper and was the forerunner of today's trick-or-treating.

The name jack-o'-lantern dates back to an Irish legend of Jack, who was notorious for being drunk and mean. The story goes that Jack was too wicked for heaven and was barred from hell for playing tricks on the devil and was therefore condemned to walk the earth with nothing but a lantern to light his way — thus the jack-o'-lantern.

The custom of carving a pumpkin for Halloween also stems back to an old Irish tradition, where Irish children hollowed out large rutabagas, potatoes and turnips, then carved a face and placed a candle inside as a means of lighting the Halloween gatherings. These lanterns also were used to ward away evil spirits. At some time during the 19th century, the Irish brought this tradition to America. It was at that time that American children put their own twist to the tradition and used a pumpkin instead.

Halloween safety suggestions

As Halloween brings fun to children across Mississippi, it also has the potential for serious mishaps, according to the Mississippi Division of Public Safety Planning.

"Sometimes, children dressed in costumes and caught up in the excitement of Halloween are easy prey for those who would harm them, potential traffic victims as they cross roadways or subject to other dangers," said Ron Sennett, Public Safety Planning's executive director. "It's important that parents take safety steps now to avoid Halloween tragedies." He offered the following suggestions:

- Select Halloween costumes that display reflective tape to various areas such as arms, legs, the front and the back to help ensure children are seen by oncoming motorists when they cross roadways. It's also wise to carry a flashlight or glowstick.

- Try to avoid letting children carry fake knives, swords, guns or other costume accessories that can encourage aggressive behavior and possibly hurt people.

- Be sure that children are properly supervised. Never drop children off in a neighborhood for trick or treating unless they are in constant view of a supervising adult or teenager, and instruct children never to go inside a stranger's home.

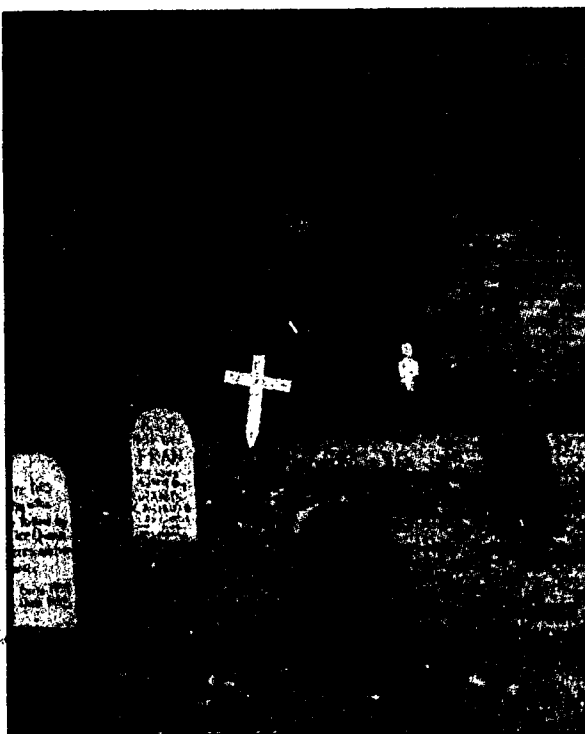

- Instruct children to remove their masks when crossing roadways.

- Ask children to avoid eating any of their treats until they get home. One way to help keep trick-or-treaters from eating while they're out is to feed them a meal or snack beforehand.

- Check out all treats at home in a well-lit area, and permit children to eat only treats that are in original wrappers. Inspect homemade items and fruit for anything suspicious.

Sennett noted that safety also is important for teenagers and adults attending Halloween parties. "Alcoholic beverages, of course, never should be included in teenager parties," he said. "If such beverages are served at a party for adults, advance arrangements should be made to ensure that individuals who will be driving home do not consume these beverages. It also is important that motor vehicles never be used in any type of Halloween prank."

To help ensure the safety of both children and adults on Mississippi roadways, the Division of Public Safety Planning is continuing a public information and education "Campaign Safe and Sober" aimed at increasing the use of motor vehicle safety belts and child protective devices and decreasing the involvement of alcoholic beverages in motor vehicle crashes.

mississippi roadways, the Division of Public Safety Planning is continuing a public information and education "Campaign Safe and Sober" aimed at increasing the use of motor vehicle safety belts and child protective devices and decreasing the involvement of alcoholic beverages in motor vehicle crashes.

Trick-or-treaters need good manners

Children can treat adults to an enjoyable Halloween evening by using good manners and following some simple safety rules.

Parents carry the bulk of the responsibility for communities having safe, enjoyable Halloweens.

Dr. Louise Davis, extension child and family development specialist at Mississippi State University, said parents need to carefully supervise their children on this fall night, often dedicated to juvenile antics.

"Trick-or-treating is best reserved for children between the ages of three and 12," Davis said. "Teenagers, especially those wanting to be treated like adults the other 364 days of the year, do not need to be going to strangers' doors asking for candy."

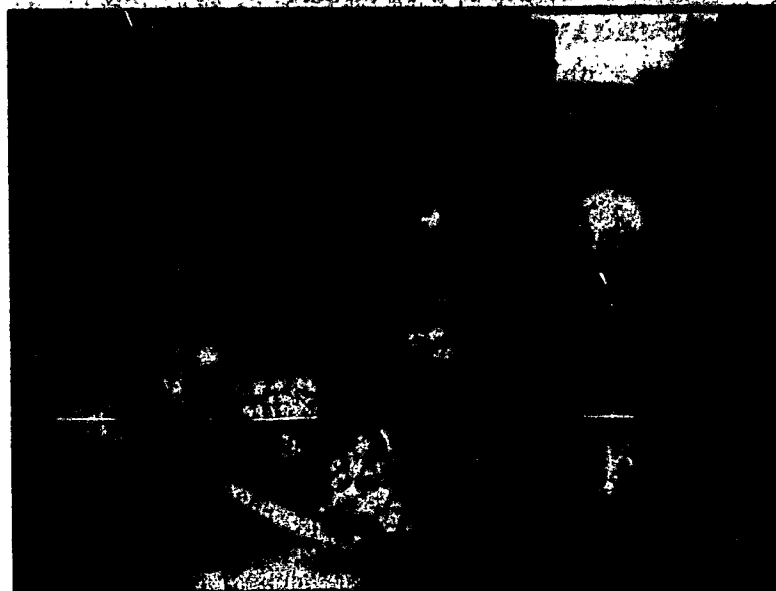

Davis said the increase of gang activities is another reason parents should closely monitor their teens on Halloween.

"All trick-or-treaters should limit their routes to familiar neighborhoods. If they venture to other areas, parents should make sure they only go to homes where they know the occupants," Davis said.

"It's always best to go to familiar homes, but that is even more true in unfamiliar neighborhoods or dark houses."

Ready for Halloween

The Kevan Schaffers, (pictured right) 120 Ragman Ave., Bay St. Louis, are ready for Halloween. The Schaffers originally from Chicago, moved here in 1995. They have two children, a son and a daughter, who are both excited about the upcoming holiday.

Historical Halloween

The annual Hancock County Historical Society's Cemetery Tour will be from 5-8 p.m. Halloween night. Residents will portray citizens of the past. Cemetery tour

Oct. 31 the Hancock County Historical Society presents its annual tour of Cedar Rest Cemetery on Second Street, Bay St. Louis, starting at 5 p.m.

McLeod Park

The public is invited to come to McLeod Park on Hwy. 603 on TUESDAY, OCTOBER 31, from 7-10 p.m. to see the haunted house and enjoy a hayride.

Halloween Party

Casino Magic is sponsoring a children's Halloween party on Oct. 31. Children ages up to 10 from Hancock County are invited to the Magic Dome from 4-6 p.m. All children should be in costume and accompanied by an adult.

Children who live in the country or in neighborhoods that don't pass out candy still can trick-or-treat. Parents should call ahead to several friends' houses and take their children to various homes.

"These children get the benefit of dressing up and seeing family friends who will appreciate the visit," Davis said. "They often receive as much candy by phoning ahead as other children who go to twice as many houses."

Discourage children from racing from one house to another.

"Parents should teach their children to be polite at each house and always say thank you," Davis said. "Running through yards and across streets is very dangerous. Teach children to walk facing traffic and to watch carefully for on-coming cars."

BETWEEN THE LINES

By Richard Meek

Hancock basketball coach Michael Ray Ladner relaxed in his tiny, barren office, reflective of the past, optimistic of the future.

Ladner has been entrusted with the responsibility of restoring the Hawk program to the level of success he once helped build. Ladner was a Hancock standout during an era when the Hawks were winning 13 of 16 district championships. During the Hawks' golden years, Hoosier would have been a more appropriate moniker for the Hancock cage program.

Ladner recalled with clarity and fondness those years, a time when his father, Roland Ladner, was the architect of the district championships. Those were times when standing room only crowds would fill the old Hawk gym, currently Hancock North Central Elementary School. Fans would stand seven deep on either side of the basket, and sway like a human wave as the action flowed up and down the court.

In those days, fans would have to arrive at least three hours early to be assured of a seat. During playoff games, it was not unusual for fans to begin gathering much earlier than that, road games included. All of this in an area ruled by football.

As a sophomore, Ladner played on a team that lost to Stone County in the state finals. Teammates included Dean Shaw, who has built a solid program at Picayune; and Alan Dedeaux, currently the principal at Gulfview Elementary.

"I understand what it was back then, and I think that's important," Ladner said. "I understand the tradition of Hancock basketball, and the great love and enthusiasm people have for the program. That was a special time."

"When you go on a run like that, everybody else was playing for second place."

Not long after the departure of Michael Ray and his dad, the Hawk program began to slip. District championship banners gathered dust, wins became fewer, and fan interest waned.

By last year, the program had hit bottom. The Hawks won only one game, and in the district tournament, several Hancock players showed up only minutes before tipoff in what was an unforgivable insult to coach Dennis Peterson. Peterson, a gentleman of the sport, deserved better.

After 17 years, Peterson resigned and Ladner, a bridge to Hancock's storied past, was hired.

"(One win) doesn't happen at Hancock," Ladner said. "You must have a high level of energy and enthusiasm 12 months a year to maintain a program. That must start with the coaches."

"At some point, the energy dropped over the past few years."

Ladner said since his return, people have greeted him with enthusiasm, and expressed optimism about the Hawks' future.

"I appreciate that," he said. "But people will have to be patient. It won't happen

Ladner a link to past Hawk success

overnight."

Hancock is Ladner's third stop in his coaching odyssey. After graduating from Southeastern Louisiana University, he coached at Bay High from 1986-91, and at one point, coached both the girls and boys' programs, and taught five classes. It was not unusual for Ladner to leave the school after 9 p.m.

He then joined childhood friend Joye Lee-McNeils at the University of Memphis. In six years, the Hancock County duo led the Lady Tigers to three straight NCAA appearances and a Conference USA title.

Ladner admitted he was happy at Memphis, but the allure of returning to his alma mater and the challenge of restoring a once-proud program that had fallen into disarray was too appealing.

"It was a difficult decision," he said. "I'll never forget how hard it was to tell (Lee-McNeils) I was leaving. The only reason I would have never left was because of her. We have been friends since the fifth grade."

The clincher for Ladner was the opportunity to return to a county and school he loved. In the end, it was a decision made with his heart.

"I love this place and the people," he said. "This is the only job I would have left Memphis for."

Ladner knows the challenge is daunting, but he hopes to draw on the Hawks' past triumphs to pave the way for future success. At the same time, he is realistic about restoring the program to where it was 20 years ago.

"I will bring in former players to talk to our team," Ladner said. "Many players don't know we won 13 out of 16 district championships."

"I don't pretend to think we can restore what it was," he added. "But I hope and pray we can get similar to that. There's been a love of basketball at Hancock over the years."

Ladner realizes the restoration must start with his players. The coach gave his players a preview of what life will be like in the Hawk program with a rigorous summer program. Then came the preseason runs.

"I want players who are dedicated to the program and the game," Ladner said. "People say you can't have that anymore."

"If players are not dedicated, then I don't want them out there with me. So far, the kids have responded well. They've hung in there."

Ladner's hiring also sets up a family coaching battle with St. Stanislaus coach Jay Ladner. Jay Ladner, the son of former Picayune coach J. Larry Ladner, another Ladner coaching legend, has guided the Rocks to two titles and is probably the district's best coach at this point.

Cousins Jay and Michael Ray Ladner have conducted a summer basketball camp in the county for the past 12 years.

"The challenge is to get competitive with (Jay Ladner)," Michael Ray said.

For now, his priority is to educate his team of a time when Hancock basketball was the king in an area traditionally ruled by football. He still has visions of cramped gyms and championships banners, and that's for the future.

Friday Forecast

Bay High at Hancock — In all likelihood, the Hawks will win 16 games over two years, and have no playoffs appearances to show for their success. They could be down following last week's heartbreaker in Picayune, but homecoming festivities should serve as motivation. Bay High continues its season long slide. Hancock 27, Bay High 6

St. Stanislaus hosts Picayune — The 14th-ranked Tide is a legitimate state contender. At this point, Rocks do not have the personnel to match up with Picayune. Credit should go to the SSC braintrust for scheduling a Thursday night game in order to have the school's boarders attend. Hopefully, it is not a one-time shot. Picayune 47, SSC 14

Purvis at Pass Christian — Pirates are reeling after some early success. Purvis leads the district but is still coping with a tragedy involving one of its players. Purvis 20, Pass 12

Last Week: 3-0. Season: 19-4.

Prep player breaks neck; paralyzed

A 16-year-old Purvis High School junior remained in intensive care Sunday after breaking his neck during a Friday night football game.

The accident paralyzed Joseph Parker, a flanker/safety. His fifth and sixth vertebrae were crushed and his fourth vertebra was damaged, according to officials at Wesley Medical Center in Hattiesburg.

"He's in pretty good spirits," said Purvis coach Jim Sizemore, who visited Parker on Saturday. "He's laughing and talking."

The injury occurred just before halftime in Purvis' game against Forrest County AHS. Parker, a two-year starter, came up from his safety position to tackle Forrest County tight end Sedrick Ingram from behind after a 12-yard catch.

"It looked just like an ordinary play," Sizemore said. "But as soon as he made the play, I knew something was wrong, because he slid off the tackle and didn't have control of his arms. They just hung out to the side, kind of limp."

The coach said all of Purvis was praying for Parker.

"Our entire student body has been here (at the hospital), just about," Sizemore said. "He's a great kid. He's a yes-sir, no-sir kid. He's one of the most popular kids in school."

Purvis, ranked No. 19 in the state Associated Press prep football poll, went on to beat Forrest County AHS 39-6. Purvis' record is now 8-0.

The Mississippi High School Activities Association offers a catastrophic injury policy that picks up medical bills once they exceed $25,000, said MHSAA executive director Ennis Proctor.

Last month, a 17-year-old New Orleans linebacker was partially paralyzed after he broke his neck while making a tackle. Richard Garner of Booker T. Washington High School returned Saturday to watch his homecoming game in a wheelchair and neck brace.

MWC homecoming

Mississippi Women's College, which became William Carey College in 1954, will celebrate homecoming Friday, Nov. 14 and Saturday, Nov. 15 on the Hattiesburg campus. The MWC activities will correspond with Carey's annual homecoming.

Hancock Bank BHS & SSC social

Hancock Bank will sponsor a Bay High and St. Stanislaus varsity football players, cheerleaders and parents Team Night Social on Thurs., Nov. 6, 6 to 9 p.m. at the Joe D. McCullough Stadium.

The event will be hosted by the St. Stanislaus Gridiron and Bay High Touchdown Clubs.

There will be hamburgers, chips and refreshments for everyone.

Special speaker will be Rev. Ron Skinner.

PRCC's hopes start with Hinds

Any hopes of a South Division football championship for Pearl River College start today in Raymond when the Wildcats visit the Hinds Eagles in a 7 p.m. matchup.

Pearl River enters the game off a hard-fought 17-13 homecoming victory over East Mississippi this past Saturday amid the mud and slush of Dobbie Holden Stadium. Hinds, on the other hand, threw itself into a tie for the division's top spot with a 24-14 victory over South-west in Summit.

PRCC is in a three-way tie for the South's No. 2 spot with East Central and Jones, while Hinds and SWCC are now 3-1 in the division.

"Any hopes we have of winning the South starts this Thursday in Raymond," PRCC head coach Keith Daniels said. "Even though we'll still have Jones to play Nov. 8, a loss to Hinds would end any title aspirations we have."

Hinds, says Daniels, is "the most talented team we've played thus far into season."

"Looking at them on film, we'll have to play virtually mistake-free football," Daniels said. "It will take a complete game for us to come out on top."

Hinds head coach Gene Murphy is amidst his 11th season in Raymond and has compiled an 84-27-5 mark during that time span. And, as usual, he has surrounded himself with plenty of football talent — "probably the best in the state," says Daniels.

"Coach Murphy is doing a great job just like he always does," Daniels said. "And, as usual, he's surrounded by some of the most talented players around."

Murphy's "ace," says Daniels, is two-year starting quarterback T. T. Tolliver, who helped the Eagles rip the Wildcats 24-3 last year. Tolliver played sparingly in the second

Bay Catholic tourney

On Nov. 22, Bay Catholic Elementary will host its first annual "Building Their Dreams" golf tournament at The Bridges golf course at Casino Magic Bay St. Louis, and all proceeds will benefit the BCE Capital Campaign Fund, which will be used to construct a new building for the school.

For information, call Suzanne or David Mayley, tournament chairmen, at 467-4398 during the day or 468-0610 at 8 p.m.

Leukemia Pro-Am raises over $20,000

Over $20,000 was raised by the first annual Marlin Torguson's Leukemia Pro-Am Golf Classic at The Bridges Golf Resort at Casino Magic. The legendary Arnold Palmer made a special appearance at the event, giving golfers an added treat.

Palmer, who had prostate cancer surgery earlier this year, emphasized that charitable events help raise money for research to cure leukemia and other cancer-related diseases. It was Palmer's first visit to the course since its opening in February.

Marlin F. Torguson, founder and chairman of the board of Casino Magic Corp., said in a press conference earlier this month that this particular cause was close to his heart because of a relative and friend dying of leukemia. The proceeds of the tournament go to the Mississippi Chapter of the Leukemia Society and help those diagnosed with leukemia in Mississippi.

The Mississippi chapter supports over 1,500 patients in its Patient Aid Program. The program provides financial assistance to patients and is supported entirely by public contributions. Anyone diagnosed with leukemia, lymphoma or Hodgkin's disease receives assistance.

"Without events such as this tournament it would not be possible for the Leukemia Society of America to assist and treat persons afflicted with leukemia and related cancers. And without treatment, 90 percent of acute leukemia victims would die within a year. Leukemia kills more children between the ages of 2 and 15 than any other disease and it kills more adults than children."

"Thankfully, modern treatments offer more hope than ever before to people who have leukemia," said Tony Huffman, president of the board of trustees of the Mississippi Chapter of the Leukemia Society.

SSC/OLA swim teams finish strong

Special to the Echo

The St. Stanislaus swim team finished another successful season with a top fifteen performance at the state championships held in Biloxi on October 25.

The Rocks finished with just four points on Saturday but it was enough to keep the SSC in 14th place overall in the state standings out of 38 teams.

The Rocks were led by two relay teams. The 200 yard freestyle relay team of Scott Johnson, Jed Bishop, Matt Finnilla, and Jeremy Clark placed eighth in the competition while the 400 yard freestyle relay team also placed eighth. The latter relay team was made up of Brian Finnilla, Matt Finnilla, Billy Bourgeois, and Thad David.

Other top performers for the Rocks were Andrew Nestor in the 200 yard freestyle relay and the 200 yard medley relay team of Patrick Clark, Nestor, Jeremy Clark, and Matt Finnilla.

The North State teams took top honors as Cleveland successfully defended its state title with 79 points while Starkville was the runner-up with 72 points. Tupelo placed third with 52 points.

The week before the SSC swim team participated in the South State Championships held in Biloxi. The Rocks placed third overall out of a field of 17 teams.

The winner of the South State meet was Picayune with 113 points followed by Ocean Springs with 93 points. SSC tallied 53 points.

Head Coach Joe Gex commented, "I thought the team swam well considering the type of season they had to endure. We lost some top swimmers early on and had some nagging injuries all season. But somehow the kids found a way to swim through them. I would like to have been in the top ten but this team really achieved more than I expected them to."

"We have a lot of guys returning for next year so it looks promising. They need to hit the weightroom and get involved in some summer swimming leagues to stay in shape. I think next year we should be competitive with Billy Bourgeois, Thad David, Matt Finnilla, Patrick Clark, Andrew Nestor, and Chris Mensi returning. Evan Tusa should help us out when I switch him from one event to another. But I like the looks of next year."

Our Lady Academy also participated in the State Championships on Saturday; however, they were unable to score points.

Erin Gaddy and Kristyn Kolb each had a top fifteen performance in the 100 yard butterfly with them placing 14th and 15th, respectively.

The 200 yard freestyle relay team of Patricia Williams, Erin Gaddy, Ashleigh Gaddy, and Kim Frazier placed 11th overall while the 400 yard freestyle relay team of Susan Goode, Missy McPhail, Ashley Alford, and Erin Gaddy placed 10th overall.

The week before OLA competed in South State Championships held in Biloxi where they finished seventh overall out of 17 teams. It is the highest finish ever for the Crescents.

The SSC swim team finished the regular season with a 4-1 record, a runner-up finish in the Biloxi Invitational, third place in the South State Championships, and a 14th place finish in the state meet.

Peter Anderson Festival scheduled in Ocean Springs

The 19th annual Peter Anderson Memorial Arts, Crafts and Food Festival, sponsored by the Ocean Springs Chamber of Commerce-Main Street, is set for Saturday, Nov. 1, 9 a.m.-5 p.m. and Sunday, Nov. 2, 10 a.m.-4 p.m.

The event was selected as one of the Southeast Tourism Society's Top 20 Events.

The festival, named in honor of the late Peter Anderson, a master potter and founder of Shearwater Pottery, is comprised of over 200 selected artists and craftsmen from across the South.

Ocean Springs Art Association's annual exhibit and sale in the Community Center, coastal artists' work on display.

Water Anderson Museum of Art will feature two exhibits. Walter Anderson's "Between the Blades of Grass," an observation of seldom celebrated creatures who dwell in the grasses and marshes of Mississippi, and "SHE," the work of Floyd Shaman who pioneered the art of laminated wood sculpture.

Little Children's Park will host a variety of activities designed especially for children provided by the Parks and Recreation Department and the YMCA.

Marshall Park — entertainment will include a variety of blues, jazz, Cajun and 50's music with tables and chairs under the oaks.

Volsport will host its annual non-competitive 5K and 2-10K walks. Do any or all at your own pace. Registration both days from 8 a.m.-noon.

St. Alphonsus Fall Festival

includes food, children's games, pumpkin patch, scarecrows and carnival rides throughout the weekend — Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Food, food and more food available at the L&N Depot, St. Alphonsus and throughout the town of Ocean Springs.

'Celebrate the Gulf' set in Pass Christian

Experience first hand the many wonders of the Gulf at the Celebrate the Gulf Marine Education Festival Saturday, Nov. 1 at the scenic Pass Christian Harbor from 10 a.m.-3 p.m.

Families can enjoy a fun day of lively, hands-on exhibits where they can touch and explore marine life, talk with local craftsmen and learn about our valuable marine resources free of charge.

Participants can interact with demonstrators and exhibitors who will share their knowledge of the Gulf and its aquatic network.

For the kids, there will be an exciting fishing rodeo with prizes and other activities, such as an under-the-sea encounter.

In addition to the many different exhibits, there will be music, food and entertainment. WLOX's meteorologist Mike Reader will host the celebration, and Magic 93.7 will also be on location to get the festival started.

For information on how you can join the fun at Celebrate the Gulf, contact Cindy Woods at 385-5860 during business hours.

T. Graham Brown to perform

Country superstar T. Graham Brown will return to Boomtown Casino Nov. 6 for two shows. The shows are at 7 p.m. and 9 p.m. in Boots Cabaret.

Brown began his career while in college at the University of Georgia. He was part of the Tony & Dirk duo which lasted a few years, until T. Graham decided to form a full band.

T. Graham and The Rack of Spam performed around the Southeast until 1982 when Brown left for Nashville to seek a recording career of his own.

In 1984, Capital/EMI gave him a contract, and over the next couple of years Brown became very successful. His previous hits include "Darlene," "I Wish That I Could Hurt That Way Again," "Hell and High Water" and "Don't Go To Strangers."

Since then Brown has been an in-demand jungle singer. He has done jingles for major nationally advertised corporations such as Taco Bell, McDonald's, Coca-Cola, Budweiser and Kraft.

T. Graham also starred in the Taco Bell spots that aired during their "Run For The Border" campaign. Brown has also tried his hand at acting with roles in Greased Lightning, The Curse and Hearbreak Hotel.

Guests can pick up free reserved seating passes at the Players Club booth located across from Boots Cabaret beginning Oct. 31.

The Players Club booth is open daily from 7 a.m.-11 p.m. There is a two-drink minimum per person to attend each show.

Must be 21 to attend. Contact the Players Club for details.

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Southern Mississippi's defense had a score to settle Saturday against the highly touted offense of Tulane.

They not only spoiled the Green Wave's three-game winning streak, but swiped the Conference USA lead and won a spot in The Associated Press poll for the first time this season.

Southern Miss (5-2, 3-0 C-USA) entered the poll at No. 24 Sunday, a day after winning 34-13 over upstart Tulane (4-3, 3-1).

"It is good recognition for our program. I'm glad we are in the top 25," Southern Miss coach Jeff Bower said Sunday. "But just because you are ranked doesn't mean you stay there. We have to continue to do the things that have allowed us to be successful on Saturday."

Southern Miss was ranked for three weeks last season. The Golden Eagles peaked at No. 20 before a 56-49 overtime loss at Houston that created a tie for the C-USA title and cost the Golden Eagles a postseason bowl berth.

The Golden Eagles have four games left, three in C-USA and at No. 8 Tennessee. The only other C-USA team without a league loss is Houston (3-4, 2-0), which travels to Hattiesburg on Nov. 15.

"Like I told our squad after the (Tulane) game, if we want to play in December, we have to win in November," Bower said. "We have four tough games left. Every week is a tough week."

Tulane took a three-game winning streak and the top-rated offense in C-USA to Hattiesburg. But the Green Wave had four turnovers, including their first lost fumble and two interceptions by New Orleans native Patrick Surtain.

"It puts us in the driver's seat," said Surtain, who also had eight tackles. "We control our own destiny and if we can win out, it's going to make the trip to the Liberty Bowl much easier."

Halloween Safety Tips

1. Don't go it alone. Trick or treaters should always go in groups, and younger children should be accompanied by an adult.
2. Beware of tricky costumes. Avoid masks that obstruct vision; theatrical makeup may be a better alternative. Additionally, make sure the costume allows child to move and run without tripping.
3. Maintain a high profile. When trick or treating at night, carry a flashlight or attach reflective tape to child's costume.
4. Teach street smarts. Remind your children to look both ways and to cross only at corners. Children should stick to a predetermined route and should be given a specific time at which to return home.
5. Don't invite trouble. Only accept treats at the front door. Never enter a stranger's home or car for any reason.
6. Play it safe. Discard any unwrapped candy and have a parent inspect all treats before eating.
